Cynical Nonsense, Indeed!

Since the Sky Shops affair is before to answer or his lawyer advises him to other words two sets of legal the courts, comments on the case would be in contempt of court. But certain aspects of this unfolding drama, which have nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of the principals, are tacit reminders of a bias that resides in this country.

When the five men charged with fraud in the case, including Senator Louis Giguere and National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell, appeared in Ottawa provincial court last Thursday, they were surrounded by a phalanx of sympathetic policemen, who kept the press at bay. Before and after their brief appearance the five were protected from reporters and cameramen, being led to and from the courtroom by tunnels and backstairs. One officer Campbell for any inconvenience.

The obvious reaction to this unusual protection is that similarly charged individuals of lesser public status do not receive such solicitous In the great majority of cases, if the press wishes to question an accused person not in custody, going or coming from a courtroom no policemen ever interferes. Perhaps the man refuses remain silent, but the police do not procedures exist, their use depending organize themselves to keep reporters from doing their duty.

Another note on the same theme can be seen in the controversy surrounding which provincial jurisdiction the five accused came under. The RCMP originally turned over its file on the case to the Quebec solicitorgeneral's department which would normally proceed with the case since the duty free shop in question was located in Quebec. After three weeks of silence from the Quebec government on the matter, the RCMP laid charges through the Ontario attorneygeneral's department, explaining that criminal allegations involved locations in both provinces. Quebec Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde, was even heard to apologize to upset that charges had been issued under another jurisdiction, proceeded by calling a "pre-enquete."

Lalonde described the procedure, common in Quebec and rare elsewhere in Canada, as ameans of altreatment from police departments. a lowing a judge to hear evidence in private. The court can then quash, enlarge or endorse the complaint. It is often used, according to Lalonde, before issuing charges involving on who is charged under Quebec law. Interesting

Yet the shading of attitudes towards the famous or well to do doesn't end here. When news of Senator Giguere's involvement in the case became public knowledge, Senate employees would not release official photograph - taken at public expense - to the press. By themselves these are small footnotes to the case itself, yet they indicate applied to those charged under the law, not by the courts, but by police, elected officials and the bureaucratic factotums that surround them

Not that these items should surprise Candians. The national Law Reform Commission in its report on criminal law said a law for the rich and another for the poor exist in Canada. Justice Minister Ron Basford, while praising the commission in general, said any such notions of two sets of laws were "cynical nonsense." Technically he's correct, but the above examples show that some things are not as they seem. Cynical nonsense, indeed, but most of it public figures such as politicians. Fleece Cutting

The 1975 report on industrial conditions in B.C. showed a 10 per cent advance, and only a small deficit in B.C. finances, one of the smallest in Canada. The promulgation of the record provincial budget of $3.6 billion gave tacit admission by the Socreds that B.C. was in a healthy economic condition, able to sustain the heavily increased taxation being levied. These facts show conclusively that even the Socreds do not really believe in their assiduouslycultivated myth of bad times under the NDP. Ferry Dining Dining in the ferry dining rooms is one of the few remaining civilized pleasures a citizen or tourist can enjoy, in contrast to the sloppy, unappetizing slambang-and-get-with-it-buster cafeteria facilities which are to substitute.

The reason given is that the dining rooms don't pay for their costs. This is of course nonsense. Any good city restaurant turns a nice profit with the same prices and services

On the other hand one must ask why the dining room in the legislature in Victoria is not to be eliminated. As we all could rertainly can not even begin to pay for its osts and those of running this dining room. (Food, salaries for cooks and waiters, laundry, maintenance, cleaning,

I think the government should reconsider this idea. It should provide good food for reasonable prices without profit but covering the costs in both formal dining oms and simpler cafeterias on our ferries. Sleeping People

After reading the article by Al Forrest onsumers Find Prices No Jole, I am not all surprised at the attitude of the Cana-an Labour Congress in general.

However, this has only confirmed what we knew would happen unless prices were frozen and only increased with prior government approval. It is too late to roll back prices after they have been increased and we all knew this when the legislation was introduced but, of course, the object of the government was to freeze or control salaries and wages and then only a cursor attempt would be made to control prices The article merely confirms what we all knew long ago. Of course the present provincial government will be of very lit tle assistance as their main support iginates in those who raise prices.

No attempt has been made to control real estate gouging, interest rates, mortgage rates and insurance charges as shown in the article in question. We must kneel at the altar of free enterprise in spite of the fact that this same free enterprise is very willing to come to the public trough when they are in trouble. Only the NDP government of Manitoba has imposed a provincial super-tax for those in the high brackets. One of these days perhaps the people will awaken.—M.
P. B. Wrixon, 301-1701 Cedar Hill X

False Picture

The people of B.C. are continually being given a false picture of the state of the economy of the province. A statement by the B.C. economic development department published in the March 9 issue of the Victoria Times, and headlined Productivity in B.C. Jumps by 10 Per Cent, tells the true story. The report further states that the outlook for 1976 is generally favorable in most sectors.

So what's all the gloom and doom for? Why is the average Joe being battered right and left to "balance the budget?" When will the Socreds lift themselves from the mire of revenge and political petulance, and show a bit of statesmanship?

The way they are playing tic-tac-toe with the people's money is following no one. The ICBC caper shows to what lengths they will go. Well, four years isn't forever and we can look forward to once again having a premier and a government of which we can all be proud.—Waiting it

The Balkans in Miniature

One of the major reasons Greater Victoria has so much difficulty in building hospitals, recreation centres or other public institutions is the interminable squabbling among parochial municipalities. It is the pre-war Balkans in miniature. The latest example of intutual suspicion resulting in inactivity concerns a recreation centre for the Saanich peninsula. Last year a $3.8 million complex serving Sidney, North and Central Saanich was in the works on a 17-acre North Saanich location. Tennis courts, an ice arena. activity rooms and a swimming pool would have been included.

Now North Saanich and Sidney plan to go ahead with a less ambitious project because Central Saanich dropped out over cost-sharing problems. The iconoclastic Central Saanich plans to go it alone, building a very basic centre to serve its own area. A new element has been injected into the controversy by a group of Central Saanich ratepayers who now favor going along with the regional plan. Central Saanich Mayor Jean Butler promises a letter next week to an example of co-operation might ratepayers, explaining the municipal reticence about the regional scheme.

It sounds so familiar, and so tedious.

Two separate centres, each with compromised facilities, is the kind of solution that has left this region with so many anomalous, fragmented services and institutions. Common sense dictates that a well-funded regional centre would better serve peninsulà people as opposed to two lesser. centres. All three councils should bury their petty hatchets and try to reach an agreement in the best interests of their municipalities. Such prove infectious in a region notably resistant to collective agreements.

RICHARD GWYN Quality Versus Quantity

OTTAWA - Productivity is something which everyone is in favor of, or ought to be. It's a measure of industrial efficiency which means getting the most output, in input, in terms of money and manpower. Canada's productivity record is rotten. Whether you put the blame for this flab-biness on business for lack of enterprise, on workers for laziness or on government stifling initiative is another question, and anyway doesn't change the unpleasant because I was watching television," Mr. Justice Thomas Berger told the people of Tuktoyaktuk when he arrived 40 minutes late for a pipeline hearing last month. A week earlier, in Holman, the judge arrived an hour behind schedule and excused himself by saying, "It was a nice morning and I went for a walk."

Cavalier? Callous? Not a bit. After more than a year of Mackenzie Valley Pipeline Inquiry hearings, the judge merely demonstrates that he's in tune with a northern society that considers sins against punctuality to be at the very worst only menial. Meetings in such places as Sachs Harbor, Paulutuk and Arctic Red River often drag on well after midnight after which everyone - including Mr Berger - whoops it up at a jig or a drum the North in the year since his inquiry formally opened at the Explorer Hotel in Yellowknife. He has listened to 200 expert witnesses at formal hearings and more than 700 at informal, community hearings all of which have been typed out in nearly 25,000 pages of official transcript.

The Berger Inquiry has cost about $3-million so far, which includes research funds for some native and environmental groups which have appeared at the hearings. The final phase of the inquiry has started but will be interrupted by a swing through southern Canada. Starting early in May, the Berger Inquiry will visit Van-couver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

Rejected Pressure

Judge Berger has said that the North is of interest to all Canadians and "we want to give people in the south a chance to eir views known to the government through the inquiry.

When the fourth and final phase of the inquiry ends sometime this year, Judge Berger will start the arduous job of writing a report. He has stressed that it is not up to him to decide on a pipeline in the Mackenzie Valley, only how one should be built if it is approved by Ottawa. He has also repeatedly rejected pressure to speed

"If I'm going to conduct this inquiry I am going to do it right," he said last month in Fort Good Hope. "This inquiry is sitting mornings, afternoons, nights and weekends and we are getting along very well. It takes time but if Canada can't take the time to make an informed decision about what is going to happen to our northland, then what has Canada got time

Berger, left, discussed northern inquiry on TV last week with Peter Gzowski

There is a new, biting edge to the judge's remarks. At the formal hearings in Yellowknife and Inuvik he brooks no nonsense and runs the inquiry briskly and efficiently. Out in the boondocks, however, at the community hearings, he has run a relaxed ship and tries not to inhibit witnesses by stiff rules or by any courtroom decorum. The results have been long, 'rap sessions with Indians and Eskimos, men and women, young and old. trappers, fishermen, local preachers and

On the last round of community hearings at Sachs Harbor, Holman, Tuktoyaktuk and Paulutuk, Judge Berger has taken it upon himself to give audiences a different view of offshore drilling, blowouts and cleanups than what is given to audiences by oil company represen-

He seems especially on guard against any tendency to snow the public on the state of the art of gas and oil drilling. The man most often called to explain the drilling procedures in the Beaufort Sea was John Hnatiuk of Gulf Oil and the Arctic Gas consortium. Hnatiuk said the chances of blowouts in offshore drilling are remote and the chances of a blowout serious enough to warrant emergency measures such as a special relief well are about one in 20,000. Even in the worst case, Hnatiuk said, the oil companies have the best equipment and the best knowhow to deal with such emergencies.

Judge Berger said he agreed that blowouts don't happen that often but a Mark Noksana told the Berger Inquiry at Tuktoyaktuk of the difficulties of whaling today and of how Eskimos depend on whales. "You know," he said, "the white man might like potatoes, he loves potatoes, he can't go without potatoes. It's just like potatoes with us, the muktuk we had eating whales. We can't go without

The Eskimo Pays

Vince Steen also told the Tuktoyaktuk hearing why the Eskimos don't always believe what white people tell them. It all started the first time Eskimos saw the white man, he said, back when the white men came as whalers. "Who's paying for it now?" Steen asked. "The Eskimo. There's a quota on how many whales he can kill now

Then came white traders and trappers The traders took the Eskimos for every cent they could get, the trappers told the Eskimos how to use steel-jawed, leg-hold traps. "For the first 70 years . . . there were no complaints down south about how cruel those traps are as long as there were white trappers using them. The oilmen have more respect for the Eskimos and their ways, Steen said, but it is too late. "The people won't take a white man's word at face value any more because you fooled them too many times. You took everything they had and you gave them nothing. You took all the fur, took all the whales, killed all the polar bear with aircraft

"Now you want to drill out there. Now they want to build a pipeline and they say they're not going to hurt the country.while they do it. They're going to let the Eskimo live his way but he can't because . . . the white man has not only gotten so that he's taken . . . everything but he's also taken the culture — half of it anyway.

"If they drill out there, if they finish off what little whales are left, what little seals are left, what little polar bears are left, with one oil spill of any size big enough to hurt those animals, we're finished. The Eskimo population and culture is finished.

If the Berger Inquiry ac complishes nothing more than compile a record of Indian and Eskimo grievances, fears, stories and humor it will have accomplished something valuable indeed. It is all there in the transcripts from community hearings in such places as Fort. Franklin, Fort Norman, Fort Liard, Old Crow, Holman, Paulatuk, Sachs Harbor, Aklavik, Arctic Red River, Fort Resolu-tion, Norman Wells, Whitehorse, Nahanni Butte and Tuktoyaktuk. It is there in English, French, Eskimo, Loucheux, Slavey, Dogrib and Chipewayan. It is history, sociology, anthropology, theology. geography, and it is alive and fresh breathing in and out, not dusty and stale.

At the latest round of community hearings in Eskimo country, the transcripts provide an account, in part, of how a people moved from a Stone Age culture to the 20th Century in little more than 200 years. They ask probing questions about such High Technology as offshore drilling for gas and oil, often tripping up the experts, but they also tell stories that go back many generations.

Not Happy Story

Charle Kitologitak told Judge Berger in Holman of a vicious encounter between two seal-hunting tribes that once lived in Prince Albert Sound. It was not a happy story. One day one of the tribes paid a surprise visit to the other tribe when all the en were out hunting seals. The visiting tribe murdered all the children and all but two of the women then left. When the men returned they picked up the tracks of the first tribe and eventually found them and to to make the story short — killed them all. Judge Berger thanked Kitologitak for the story but the old Eskimo had more to tell him.

There was the story of the man named Migok. a nasty villain who laid in wait for returning seal-hunters and always seized the biggest seal for himself, usually the big male seal. Well, one day a hunter saw Migok coming at him from a distance and he cut a testicle from the seal he had caught and put it in his mouth. As Charlie Kitologitak related the story at the Berger Inquiry, the hunter then confronted Migok and said, "Look, I have one of my testicles in my mouth. Why don't you cut yours and put it in your mouth, too?" Migok, evidently, was as stupid as he was nasty and he did precisely that.

"So that's the way he got rid of that seal-snatcher," Kitolotitak said.

"I guess that's a story with a happy ending," Judge Berger remarked, causing another outbreak of laughter at the hear-

When the hearings swing through the southern cities, the judge doubtless will have to pay more attention to the clock. But it is a masterstroke at this point to take the inquiry through southern Canada. It is not always easy for the nation's media to fight their way to the high Arctic, so why not take the inquiry to them? Also, it is no secret that the higher the profile of the Berger Inquiry, the harder it will be to dismiss the report when it is finished

A Fable . . . Sort of .

Minister of Southern Affairs is clever, bilingual, realistic. Suppose he is not only a natural-born genius as an administrator but also understands politics the way beavers know how to build dams and racoons know how to open garbage cans.

Now let us also suppose that the Minister of Southern Affairs appreciates this paragon of executive assistantship (who gets $30,000-a-year of your money and mine) not only because he knows the chap's talents but also because he knows the chap. He knows they understand one another, that they have no serious differences over such ticklish matters as political morality and that he, as the Minister of Southern Affairs, will be able to trust his new lieutenant always to act in the minister's own best interests. * * *

Harmony is essential to such relationships. Why would a cabinet minister tolerate an executive assistant squabble? Why would he hire one who's liable to cross him?

The executive assistant, if he's good at his work, knows his minister's mind so well that, on occasion, he can act on the At these moments, he's a kind of extension of the minister's brain.

Now let us carry our fantasy a step further. Suppose the executive assistant, in the course of his devoted service to the Minister of Southern Affairs, arranges the Candid photography of the minister's most dangerous political enemy as he relaxes in a massage parlor staffed ex-clusively by graceful young men, and the enemy's subsequent abrupt retirement from public life;

A déposit in the minister's Swiss bank account of $525,000 from a corporation to which the Department of Southern Affairs has just awarded a $25-million contract to study the impact on the environment of the Canadian southland of the annual tourist influx from Uruguay;

The appointment, as Clerk of the Privy
Council, of the minister's only brother-inlaw, whose other distinctions include convictions on charges of robbing pay telephones, rolling drunks, bribing jockeys, manipulating magnets under roulette tables and, in his maturity, conspiring to fix supermarket prices;

The murder of the minister's former secretary and abandoned mistress, a woman who has photocopied sensationally embarrassing documents from his private to detail, moves up to become the new as-sistant deputy minister of the Department of Thoughts About the Free Enterprise System; and that the Minister of Southern Affairs emerges from a cabinet shuffle as the Minister of National Polarization.

Little do they know, however, that the former secretary — just before she died in an unsolved nightclub blaze — told all to her current lover "in case something hap-

The lover, a washed-up Press Gallery reporter, restores his reputation by writing stories that set the whole nation babbling about murder, blackmail, bribery and nepotism, and all of it swirling around the office of Southern Affairs in the Minister was over there.

The Opposition thunders out demands for information. The Prime Minister is in the hottest trouble of his life. Slowly, he rises in the House before packed galleries, apprehensive allies and slavering enemies. Ah yes, he says, he has indeed had a little chat with the minister in question.

But there's no sweat. The Prime Minister is satisfied. Yes, he's satisfied now that his honorable cabinet colleague simply knew nothing at all about any wrongdoing by anyone in Southern Affairs with regard to murder, blackmail, bribery or nepotism at any time.

Okay, now let us further suppose that the executive assistant, having performed with regard to marder, backman, broary or nepotism at any time.

Why didn't he know? Oh come now, let's not quibble. Isn't it enough that his ignorance kept his hands clean?

"The air-pollution episode was the only observable unusual condition in November 1975 that could have caused the expected mortality rate to deviate so widely," the EPA statistical analysis said.

Daniel Snyder, the EPA's regional administrator, emphasized that the report does not say the air pollution actually killed 14 persons.
"But it certainly shows there is a relationship between air pollution and a recorded increase in mortality," he said in a telephone interview Sunday from his home in Philadelphia.

The Commons will be raised to 282 seats for the next federal election, generally expected in 1978.

The Conservatives, hold only four seats in Quebec out of a total of 74, are anx-ious to extablish a political base in the province before the next election.

All 11 Social Credit members represent Quebec ridings, mostly rural.

Conservative Leader Joe Clark said earlier he would try to bring Social Credit into the fold.

The Conservative's lack of success in Quebec under former party leader Robert Stanfield kept the party from taking office and Clark is de-termined to improve on that record.

Caouette was adamant in his stand against the proposed

He said he likes Clark personally but thinks the Conservative leader needs time and experience to become effec-

"There is a division, people who do not accept him as a leader. They find him too young, no experience and so on," Caouette said.

"I don't think he is sure of himself. This may come in a year or two but for himself I hope there is no election be-fore 1978."

Caouette said he does not score a breakthrough in Quebec when the next election is held.

_______________________ MILL BAY ESTATE

Approached down a picturesque country lane through parklike grounds this pleasing and authentic Tudor type home has 2.3 Acres and 200 feet of choice, sheltered Mill Bay waterfront. The 23 year old home has a rare southern exposure, is sheltered from prevailing winds and offers year round moorage offshore in Mill Bay.

The property is fenced and has two paddocks for horses or sheep to keep things trim. The garden is a delight in spring and has beautiful landscaping, flowering, ornamental and fruit trees and a rose garden.

There is a well maintained two bedroom quest house or which doubles for recreation and casual living and entertaining. There is a large Barbecue, grape arbour, benches, grass, paving stone and white shell areas. You can stroll down a nearby driveway on the property to the water's edge, a rock causeway, concrete and wood piers can be utilised for boating.

causeway, concrete and wood piers can be utilised for boating.

While not a large house the half timbered black and white Tudor exudes the warmth and charm of a house with "character." Very roughly some 2,500 sq. ft. of floor area exists on three levels. The craftsmanship is unusual with hand adzed beams and mantel in the living room, leaded panes, a Dutch type fireplace in the den-entry and a "Dutch" door in front. The panelled den-entry also has a built-in sideboard. The living room overlooks the water and beamed ceiling and large brick fireplace give it a cosy atmosphere. The master bedroom is on the main floor and has built-ins and view of the water. The house is flexible and three bedrooms and a sewing room upstairs can be completely closed off.

On the lower level of the home there is an office and a large recreation room with bar and the customary utility area.

The price of $190,000 includes the separate bungalow rented for $200 monthly and is substantially below a recent appraisal of the property. 1975 taxes were approx. $800 gross.

All in all this is an excellent and well maintained country home on the sea and may be purchased with approximately half cash.

SEAFRONT RETREAT

Located on beautiful Thetis Island Just 3½ miles off Chemainus on Vancouver Island this property is served by an excellent and inexpensive ferry service. This beautifully treed country homesite is one of the finest sites in the Gulf Islands and contains approx. 3 acres and about 456 feet of choice waterfront. Clam Bay in front of the property offers good summer moorage offshore and a bountiful supply of oysters. There are two excellent marinas about five minutes away.

As the property is fenced it would be practical for a horse or two or several sheep for grazing and trimming and/or riding. There are two deep drilled wells and in addition the owner has incorporated springs into a natural pond for fish and irrigation purposes. 1975 taxes were $437.

The low profile bungalow of some 2100 sq. ft. blends into the natural setting with a vertical cedar and batten exterior and heavy shake roof.

Inside extensive use has been made of light and darker mahogany panelling. A massive stone fireplace is a practical feature in the 18x26 living room and handles the larger logs. Low windows afford a fascinating view of passing boats and nearby Kuper Island. Sliding glass doors seem to beckon for summer indoor-outdoor living. The house is approx. 13 years old and includes a dining room 12x18, two bedrooms plus a spacious 16x24 room with adjacent bathroom for guest suite, family room, den, etc.

The master bedroom is 18x18 with a full wall of closet space and low view windows to enjoy the garden and water. The home is electrically heated and there is a nearby separate double garage. The land has a very gentle slope to the water and would lend itself admirably to construction of such amenities as tennis court, swimming pool, guest cottage, etc.

The owner is prepared to accept half cash at the listed price of $185,000.

The $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin ...destined to become one of the most outstanding coins in history... why you should buy yours now

The Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is the first $100 face value Olympic coin ever issued.

2 It is the second Olympic gold coin of any kind ever issued by a host nation. In 359 B.C. Philip of Macedonia, the father of Alexander the Great, issued the first Olympic coin ever struck in gold. Now the Government of Canada is issuing the second host nation Olympic gold coin in history.

In the entire 3,000 year history of the Olympic Games, the Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is the highest denomination Olympic coin ever minted.

With a $100 face value, this is also the highest denomination coin ever issued in North America

5 It will be minted in a limited edition.
The quantity of Canadian Olympic Gold Coins to be minted is far fewer than other modern Olympic coin issues except for Helsinki.

The Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is minted by the Royal Canadian Avint, internationally acclaimed for its rigidly controlled standards of quality and workmanship. This coin is legal tender and backed by Canada for its full face yalue.

7. All previous Canadian gold coin issues have increased significantly in value. (See table). All these facts enhance the value of this unique coin That's why it could prove to be a solid and timely investment.

This truly remarkable Uncirculated quality Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is being offered in limited quantities at official issue price of $105.00 until June 15th, 1976. Because demand for this coin is expected to exceed supply, purchases of the 14 karat Gold Coin are limited to five (5) coins per customer.

The outstanding investment performance of Canadian gold coins
Canadian gold coins with a face value of $5 and $10 were issued during the years 1912 to 1914 and have increased significantly in value.

Even the most recent Canadian gold coin, the 1967 $20 Centennial gold coin, has shown a significant increase in value in the 9 years since its issue. (See table.) The remarkable appreciation on the three Canadian gold coins may explain why coin investment counsellors often recommend them. Although no assurance can be given that any particular coin will appreciate in value, the $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin will ce tainly interest knowledgeable collectors the world

A work of art in gold
The $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin was designed by the renowned Canadian medallic artist, Dora de Pedery-Hunt. TORONTO (CP) — Match penalties in the 'Ontario Hockey Association have decreased by 20 per cent this past season, outgoing OHA president Cliffe Phillips told delegates at the group's annual meeting Saturday.

Phillips credited the reduction in the penalties to the OHA's interest in reducing violence in amateur hockey.

"During my term in office, the subject receiving the greatest notoriety has been what is commonly called violence in hockey," said Philips and he was attempting to stress the importance of hockey in Canadian society.

NEVER MIND SST PROBLEM, FIGHT NOISE IN YOUR HOME

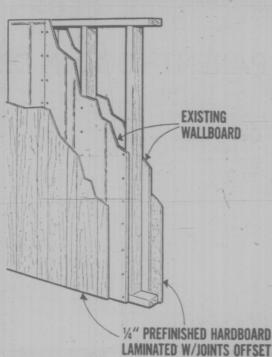

By A. J. HAND

Now that the great debate over the SST is with us again, the country is once more turning its attention to the problem of noise pollution. Admittedly, there's little you can do about noise in the outside world. But you can at least do something to make the noise level inside your home tolera-

One good thing about fight-ing noise in your home is the fact that many of the anti-noise measures you take will also improve the appearance of your home. For example, if you are interested in stopping the transmission of noise from the outside of the house, in-stallation of 1/4-inch hardboard paneling is a good idea. Hard-board is a dense material and, applied as shown in the sketch, it can make an ordi-nary plasterboard wall more impervious to sound than one built of 8-inch concrete block.

If you decide to install paneling to cut noise transmis-sion, there are a few tricks that will increase its effectiveness. Use both nails and panel adhesive. Think of the adhesives as a sort of "noise caulk," Run a full bead of it about an inch in from the edges of the panel, all around the perimeter (on the back of the panel, of course). And run inches, too. When the panels are in place, caulk the cracks around electrical outlets. Use moldings at floor, ceiling and

A little background music to cover up the noise around you can go a long way toward preserving your sanity. Plants in the bathroom? I've read in your column that hubble to be the steam from the shower will kill the plant. In the past I have tried to keep plants in my bathroom; they seem to do very well for a while, then get sickly and I move them to another room. I'd like to place an asparagus fern in a hanging pot over one end of the bathtub. Would that be recommended? — S.K.

Dear S.K.:

Not unless you like picking yellow spines out of the tub before every bathing. As far as growing plants in the bathroom is concerned, as long as there is sufficient light, the humidity your showers provide can only do them good. We've never heard of hot steam killing these subgood. We've never heard of hot steam killing these subtropical house plants (whose native habitats are jungles, not bathrooms) unless, of course, the boiling hot water is splashed onto the plant.

If your plants do well for a while in your bathroom, it's possible you're buying plants that aren't going to do well Uncooked fruits and vegetables, well-washed but not peeled, with exceptions of bananas and citrus fruits, are the logical source of fibre. A salad every day is not empty advice. Even though difficult o keep at perfection, salads are available in all restaurants; and you always find that aren't going to do well anywhere indoors (maiden-hair fern, aphelandra, some of the more difficult ferns, and so forth) or, as we said earlier, it's entirely possible you don't have enough light. Remember, no matter how much humidity you provide, the plants must have light either natural or artificial — in order to grow. With these things in mind, try again if you think conditions are right. But honestly, a Boston fern sounds like a better idea than an Asparagus.

Since the reappearance of medical recommendations to include more fibre in North-American diets, there have been requests for recipes. It would seem that some of us have little idea what is meant. Adding more fibre to meals is not difficult, but writing a set of recipes with fibre specifically included is a bit of a problem. The reason is simple, fibre is or should be a part of many foods included in normal meals and is only absent when removed in manufacturing processes and by

A LITTLE BLACK HUMOR.

WASHINGTON (WP) — A mixup among black faces has caused some red faces at the U.S. state department.

Late Wednesday the department sent photographic slides of five African leaders whose countries Henry Kissinger is visiting to 505 television sta-tions around the country.

Friday morning officials discovered that three of the slides carried the wrong names.

The one labelled "President (Jomo) Kenyatta of Kenya" was actually president Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia. The one marked "President Kaunda" da" was actually president Joseph Mobutu of Zaire. And the one labelled Mobutu was Julia Moore, the media liai-son officer who discovered the error, said her office, in charge of the project, was "horrified."

"We don't send out too many slide features," she said. "We sent this one because we felt Africa is impor-tant. We felt people don't know . . what the leaders look like."

The department sent out a correction letter Friday, Moore said, and received some phone calls from stations that had spotted the error on their own. The mailing, she said, went to the mostly "small-market state." mostly "small-market sta-tions" that subscribe to the department's Television Slide Feature Service.

Big Clouds Of Gas In Space

Spanish Reds Push Strikes

MADRID (UPI) - The Spanish Communist party today called for strikes and street protest this week to be used as a "pickaxe" to wreck what it called the fascist regime of King Juan Carlos.

The clandestine appeal, reported by the national news agency Cifra, followed similar calls issued by the un-derground workers' commissions, labor union and other

Ict-wing group.

It came as police were holding an unknown but large number of political suspects arrested in a series of crackdowns designed to crush the organizational setup for the planned unrest.

The Communists called for a nation-wide general strike in the construction industry April 28 to 30 as the opener to a wave of stoppages marking a wave of stoppages marking May Day.

Strikes, agitation, street demonstrations and protests will be "the pickaxe that wrecks fascism . . and brings down the monarchy of (King) Juan Carlos," the party said.

Castro Trying To Dump Blacks'

NEW YORK -NEW YORK — Former Black Panther leader Eldrige Cleaver accused Cuban Pre-mier Fidel Castro on Sunday of plunging into military ad-ventures in Africa to get rid of dissident black officers in the Cuban army. the Cuban army.

In an article written for Newsweek magazine, Cleaver

'Castro's greatest single pre-occupation has been get-ting rid of wave after wave of militant black leaders who continued leadership.

"Today, the chickens are coming home to roost for Fi-cy that has contributed heavily to his longevity as the white head grafted on to Cuba's black body."

Cleaver said he drew these conclusions, partly as a result of talking with a man identified only as Capt. Toro—"a zealous, young black Cuban officer . . . who minced no words in denouncing Castro's policy of shipping out to foreign wars the militant young black officers as a safety valve on the domestic scene."

Cleaver's own militant activities in the United States led him to flee abroad, but he returned to the U.S. last November after seven years in exile to face charges against

The story begins with EDP Industries Ltd., the computer wonder stock that plunged to three cents from $30 a share within seven years of trading on the Vancouver Stock Exnessman Jim Pattison set out to consolidate EDP's shares on the basis of one new share for 40,000 old shares— a scheme that would squeeze out the small shareholders and give Pattison a company with a huge tax loss position that would be useful in the future to some of his other com interests were known to be owners of more than 40,000 shares. These interests, it was supposed, would end up owning all the new shares, and everyone who owned less than 40,000 shares would sell out to Pattison at 5.6 cents a share.

(That figure was deemed fair by chartered accountants of Touche Ross and Co.)

What Pattison didn't count on was the likes of Marsden Fenwick, a Winnipeg accountant, who over the years has become something of a student of Pattison's busines behavior and decided to chal-renge him in "a game of brinkmanship" over EDP In-

Fenwick, a small shareholder of EDP through most of its seven years as a public com-pany, said that when he saw the end coming he began ac-cumulating thousands of EDP shares in the three-to-four cents range, speculating that Pattison would move to take over the whole company.

There was no way that EDP Insutries would just simply die, said Fenwick: "I know Pattison better than that. Those tax losses wouldn't be

Fenwick's stragegy was simple: If he wound up as a small shareholder, Pattison would be desperate to eliminate him and would have to

He accumulated more than 120,000 shares with this thought in mind, qualifying him for three of the new shares. Then he offered his three shares for Mr. Pattison at $10,000 each — considerably more than the $2,240 a new share was worth under Pattison's one-for-40,000 plan.

and an aide later said it was a good example of how a small shareholder can try and unfairly "hold up" a company

And Pattison had not one Ernie Hudson has one share and Ivan Burton of Reno, Nev., has two shares.

The three small shareholders apparently are acting in-dependently. Hudson, a long-time shareholder of EDP, was able to claim a new share because he had some unregis-tered stock that Pattison didn't know about. Burton was able to get in with his two shares because he was able to consolidate a lot of stock which had been held in various family names.

Others saw the day's weakness as a sign of the Dow's continued difficulty this year in holding ground above the 1.000 mark.

Dickenson Mines fell ¼ to Pancanadian 1 $5, Mattagami Lake A ¼ to up ¼ at $23½. $17 and Rio Algom ¼ to $33¾. Gulfstream Resources was Lon unchanged at $1.56 after trad-ing was resumed at the opening following a two-day halt. The company had released encouraging results from oil wells in the Arabian Gulf off Qatar. The company has a five-per-cent interest in the wells.

Sunningdale Oil fell 1/8 to $11%, Asamera 1/8 to $105/8 and PanCanadian Pete 1/8 to $231/k. Ocelot Industries was up 3/4 to $143/k and Bridger Petroleum % to $5%.

MILL BAY ESTATE

Approached down a picturesque country lane through parklike grounds this pleasing and authentic Tudor type home has 2.3 Acres and 200 feet of choice, sheltered Mill Bay waterfront. The 23 year old home has a rare southern exposure, is sheltered from prevailing winds and offers year round moorage offshore in Mill Bay.

The property is fenced and has two paddocks for horses or sheep to keep things trim. The garden is a delight in spring and has beautiful landscaping, flowering, ornamental and fruit trees and a rose garden.

There is a well maintained two bedroom guest house or caretakers home presently bringing an income of $200 monthly.

Summer living is a joy on the huge sun trap and terrace which doubles for recreation and casual living and entertaining. There is a large Barbecue, grape arbour, benches, grass, paving stone and white shell areas. You can stroll down a nearby driveway on the property to the water's edge, a rock causeway, concrete and wood piers can be utilised for boating. .41 on 15,500. Arctic Gold and Silver was down .01½ at .10

While not a large house the half timbered black and white Tudor exudes the warmth and charm of a house with "character." Very roughly some 2,500 sq. ft. of floor arcs exists on three levels. The craftsmanship is unusual with hand adzed beams and mantel in the living room, leaded panes, a Dutch type fireplace in the den-entry and a "Dutch" door in front. The panelled den-entry also has a built-in sideboard. The living room overlooks the water and beamed ceiling and large brick fireplace give it a cosy atmosphere. The master bedroom is on the main floor and has built-ins and view of the water. The house is flexible and three bedrooms and a sewing room upstairs can be completely closed off.

On the lower level of the home there is an office and a large recreation room with bar and the customary utility area.

The price of $190,000 includes the separate bungalow rented for $200 monthly and is substantially below a recent appraisal of the property. 1975 taxes were approx. $800 gross.

All in all this is an excellent and well maintained country home on the sea and may be purchased with approximately half cash. EARLY QUOTES

Coaled on beautiful Thetis Island Just 3½ miles off Chemainus on Vancouver Island this property is served by an excellent and inexpensive ferry service. This beautifully treed country homesite is one of the finest sites in the Gulf Islands and contains approx. 3 acres and about 456 feet of choice waterfront. Clam Bay in front of the property offers good summer moorage offshore and a bountiful supply of oysters. There are two excellent marinas about five minutes away.

As the property is fenced it would be practical for a horse or two or several sheep for grazing and trimming and/or riding. There are two deep drilled wells and in addition the owner has incorporated springs into a natural pond for fish and irrigation purposes. 1975 taxes were $437.

Inside extensive use has been made of light and darker mabogany panelling. A massive stone fireplace is a practical feature in the 18x28 living room and handles the larger logs. Low windows afford a fascinating view of passing boats and nearby Kuper Island. Sliding glass doors seem to beckon for summer Indoor-outdoor living. The house is approx. 13 years old and includes a dining room 12x18, two bedrooms plus a spacious 16x24' room with adjacent bathroom for guest suite, family room, den, etc.

The master bedroom is 18x18 with a full wall of closet space and low view windows to enjoy the garden and water. The home is electrically heated and there is a nearby separate double garage. The land has a very gentle slope to the water and would lend itself admirably to construction of such amenities as tennis court, swimming pool, guest cottage, etc.
